

SuperRecords

CASE STUDY

How an accounting firm
beat ATO deadlines with the right outsourcing partner

A Sydney-based advisory accounting firm was struggling to find staff amidst the skills shortage. After trying multiple outsourcing providers, the business approached SuperRecords to see whether higher quality work could be delivered.

Skills shortages were threatening the business

The firm struggled to find qualified staff for SMSF work amidst the current staff shortages, and this was having a significant impact on its delivery and costs. The accounting firm had engaged with multiple other outsource providers, but was unhappy with the quality of work that had been returned.

The firm then turned to SuperRecords in the hope of finding a provider with experienced staff that delivered high quality work, in agreed upon turnaround times as promised.

The right provider becomes a long-term success partner

SuperRecords gave the firm access to a pool of qualified staff that quickly and drastically improved service delivery. The staff supported the firm with lodgments and the handling of the independent audit requirement and significantly improved its lodgement program. This allowed the firm to complete 80% of that year's work before Christmas – 5 months ahead of deadlines.

With an enhanced service delivery and lodgement program, the client has achieved better cash flows and improved their internal costing structures – all of which have led to better profit margins and scalability

Pleased with the quality and reliability of SuperRecords's staff, the firm has further engaged SuperRecords for business services solutions. Now, the client utilises a team of 5 resources and SuperRecords has become a long-term backend success partner for this Sydney-based accounting firm.
